

SAUNTERINGS
From Where The West
Begins.

GRADUATION time is here again. Soon classrooms and teachers will be associated only with happy memories of youth, as the college graduates take up the more serious occupations of life.

The open road that lies ahead will lack, somewhat, the spirit of patience and personal interest students have always received from their loyal teachers. In the business and professional world there are many heartaches and struggles against, seemingly, great odds before one gains a foothold upon the rugged mountain of success, fame, and fortune.

Regardless of what fields their chosen career may lead, lessons of honesty, courage, loyalty, and the broad, general scholastic knowledge the graduates acquired during student days, will serve to excellent advantage in business and social undertakings. Education well applied is always a mark of culture.

In the ranks of these happy-faced youngsters now receiving their well-deserved diplomas are assembled the planners, builders, and leaders of a greater tomorrow. Our sincerest congratulations to all graduates. May success, good health, and fortune accompany their noble efforts in carrying out the high and lofty ideals they have in mind at this time.

MEMORIAL DAY.

MEMORIAL DAY will be celebrated throughout the United States on Wednesday. Fitting tribute will be paid the brave souls who sacrificed their life in service of flag and country.

On this same date in 1539, Hernando De Soto landed at the Bay of Espiritu Santo, on the western coast of Florida. A band of 300 followers accompanied De Soto.

HISTORY BACK TO LIFE

THE voice of President Roosevelt was heard over the radio last Sunday morning in an address before the joint session of Congress commemorating the 100th anniversary of the death of General Lafayette, a brave French marquis, who fought for American liberty during the revolution. The French ambassador likewise delivered a message that touched on the deep-rooted comradeship existing between the people of France and the people of the United States.

President Roosevelt's talk was like the pages of history awakening to life. He touched on personal intimacies between George Washington and General La Fayette, and that which later existed between Andrew Jackson and General La Fayette.

MOVIE DIRECTORS ARE IN ACTION

and cameras are clicking at Randolph Field these days, as Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's crew are on location filming a thrilling air drama, "The West Point of the Air." Leading characters in the picture will include Wallace Berry, Robert Montgomery and Maureen O'Sullivan.

STRAW VOTE.

THE Literary Digest has another nationwide straw poll vote on the fire in an attempt to determine if the general public throughout the United States are satisfied with the policies and various measures enacted by the Roosevelt administration thus far. We received a ballot in the mail, and like the majority of American citizens today, naturally, our humble vote on the question was a big YES. President Roosevelt is only human. He may make mistakes in his attempt to get our country back on the road to recovery—but no one can deny his abundance of courage and initiative in keeping his word for action in governmental affairs—when that action was drastically needed to avert serious consequences.

SWIFT JUSTICE.

SWIFT JUSTICE handed down to three confessed kidnapers of William F. Gettle in California recently should prove a warning to gangsters who might be tempted to resort to the "snatch" racket in an attempt to make some easy money. The California kidnapers received an iron-bound life in prison sentence as ransom for their unlawful efforts. All the money in the world would not tempt these men now—if they could have the freedom of an honest, hard-working day laborer. But it is too late.

FILTHY BOOKS.

IF ONLY our courts would impose prison terms on publishers of the filthy books, magazines and indecent literature that are being openly sold on the news-stands today. This generating reading matter is getting into the hands of our youthful citizens. Observe the cover designs of some of the vulgar, suggestive, monthly publications spreading propaganda of wanton vice and perversion under the misleading guise of love stories and psychology.

And some of our movie magnets could use soap and water and live on the majority of suggestive scenes that are fished upon the silver screen and ballyhooed as torrid sex appeal by their publicity department. A stretch in the pick and shovel brigade might encourage the movie industry leaders to produce more wholesome, and less gangster, and triangle, and mistic complications, with overdone emphasis on hoidir scenes. What do you think?

BUILDING DRAINAGE FOR CITY

City and ERA Funds Building Water Drainage for Main Street, at Court-house.

A force of men are working this week building a system of drainage that will carry away the water accumulating on Main street, front of courthouse, from the recently-hard-surfaced streets of Gex and Cue.

It is understood surfacing of the streets, one on each side of the court building interfered with the process of natural drainage and the water, unable of soil absorption, was carried over Main street and into the ward of the dwelling property across the street, owned by A. R. and A. U. Hart.

Mr. and Mrs. Hart claimed damage from water overflow and filed suit against both city and county. Judge Russell in chancery court, July, 1933, gave a verdict of $1700.00 actual damages to the plaintiffs and ordered both city and county to build and place such drain as to carry away surplus water in future in order to avoid further damages. City and county agreed to take care of costs and damages, the county to pay plaintiffs and also cost of court, the latter totalling over $400.00. The city, it was agreed, in compliance with an order from Judge Russell's court, to build the drainage and relieve the water congestion and also to prevent further damage.

Accordingly, the city at present is building such a drainage system, laying 12-inch terra cotta pipes, properly jointed, for a distance of 220 feet, connecting with a drain well in front of the Quintini market, with a 6-inch fall. This carries out to the waters of the bay.

The firm of W. A. McDonald is supplying the terra-cotta pipe and fittings and all other material, the latter under agreement of a contract to supply the city with such building material.

E. S. Drake, C. E., is representing the city's interests and is supervising the work.

Under provisions of the ERA (Emergency Reconstruction Administration), the work is carried out jointly with the city. The city will pay for material and the ERA labor, save one man for the city.

With government assistance the city is not only carrying out the order of the court but is removing a bad weather menace and receiving substantial assistance under one of the governmental agencies of the reconstruction program.

This work is well under way and will probably be finished during the week.

Other projects are under consideration by the Mayor and Commissioners for a possible later date.

Mrs. Stilwell's Art Exhibit at Library Last Saturday Afternoon

A hammock slung in the shade—long hot days—long cool drinks—a good book—and let the rest go fishing.

Speaking of calm and lonely scenes, an appreciative group enjoyed Mrs. Nina Stilwell's water-colors of scenes about Bay St. Louis with their skillful treatment of water and gray moss, at her exhibit, held last Saturday afternoon, benefit of the public library and sponsored by Miss Louise Crawford, librarian. All came to admire the paintings (and did) but remained to gasp with amazement at the wonders wrought by Miss Crawford in the library rooms with paint, shelves and flowers, by saying nothing of skillful rearrangement.

Generosity is still being shown in donations. The "Clarion Ledger" of Jackson has given a year's subscription to its daily paper. More books have come in, "Gentlemen All" by William Fitzgerald, four children's books and two junior books.

JOS. R. SCHARFF'S STORE CELEBRATES 3RD ANNIVERSARY SALE

Various Guessing Contests And Features Marked The Two Day Program

An event in the local commercial life of Bay St. Louis was the anniversary celebration last week-end of Joseph R. Scharff's IGA Store, which he established three years ago and since then built an ever-increasing trade.

A full page advertisement in last week's issue of The Sea Coast Echo, supplemented with several thousand copies of reproductions from this form, informed the public of the city and county in thorough fashion. It was a case of complete publicity saturation and the result was that thousands of people thronged the store each of the two days, Friday and Saturday. Mr. Scharff expressed himself well satisfied with the anniversary sale and through the medium of the newspaper wishes to thank the public for their generous response.

There were a number of features that added to the interest of the occasion. A giant block of Brookfield butter was on exhibition and who ever would give the nearest correct weight would receive $5.00 cash. The exact weight was 403 pounds. Mr. John Buehler guessed 405 pounds.

The giant Swift Premium Bologna sausages weighed 73 3/4 pounds. Mrs. George L. Cuevas, guessed 70 pounds and received $2.50.

Winners of the well-filled baskets of food were Conrad Sick, Mrs. M. F. Bangard, Mrs. Owen Crawford, Mrs. John Ploue, Mrs. E. K. Davis, Mrs. J. W. Watts.

Mr. Collins, of the advertising department of Swift & Co., was the announcer in the "radio" broadcast during the entire two days.

An extra force of obliging and competent clerks were in attendance and the crowds were promptly served—and service with a smile.

MAKER OF WONDERFUL DISPLAY OF ALTAR LINENS ON VISIT TO BAY SAINT LOUIS—ATTENDS PRIEST ORDINATION

Mrs. Anna H. Kroell, of Oak Park, Chicago, Accompanied By Husband Guests at The Answer For a While—Something About the Linen Work

Among the many visitors to Bay St. Louis from far and near, Catholics who came to see the ordination of four young men for the holy estate of priesthood at St. Augustine's Seminary, are Mr. and Mrs. Kroell, who reside at Oak Park, a separate municipality suburban to Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Kroell are interesting personalities and are registered with Mrs. Abigail Bourgeois at The Answer and have met quite a number of our people.

Mrs. Kroell's handiwork in linen for church altars is outstanding in beauty and workmanship and has attracted much attention.

The following article from the Oak Park Leaves, the weekly publication of that locality, carries the following article which tells of the work and of an interesting party recently given at Oak Park. It is worthy of reproduction and will be read by many. The article follows:

The Sorrowsful Mothers' Sewing circle, composed of fifteen Oak Park women, had a display of altar linens which they had made during the past year at the home of the president, Mrs. Anna H. Kroell, 733 Carpenter on Friday afternoon. It was attended by over two hundred neighbors and friends.

The display of handiwork made by these women consisted of over two thousand pieces and included a complete set of robes and vestments of spun gold satin and rose point Alb lace which will be presented to the son of one of their members, Rev. Frances Wehrle, S. V. D., of Elgin, Ill., when he will be ordained on May 26 at Techny, Ill. He will also receive a seventy-five piece set of altar linens.

On May 23 at St. Augustine's Seminary, Bay St. Louis, Miss., the

CENTRAL SCHOOL P T A INSALLS OFFICERS AND GIVES REPORTS

8433 Free Lunches Served At School Since Nov.—School Books Supplied Free

The last meeting of the Bay Central P. T. A. was held at the school, Tuesday, May 22nd. The following officers for next year were installed:

Mrs. A. P. Smith, president; Mrs. Leo Seal, vice-president; Mrs. Gus Ferry, secretary; Mrs. Horace Kergosien, treasurer.

The final reports of the various committees were given. One of the most outstanding works for the year was the lunch room sponsored by the P. T. A. and the Relief. There were 8,433 free lunches served to school children from November 17, 1933 to May 18, 1934, inclusive. In addition pay lunches were served to those who so desired. It is impossible to estimate the great benefit to the children derived from this splendid work and the women who carried on this project are worthy of particular praise.

Another work of importance accomplished in the past year, was the purchase of school books for needy children. There were 73 books bought, or donated for this cause. The money spent on books totaled $53.35. This is exclusive of the books bought by the relief. These books became the property of the pupils as their parents had put in work to pay for them. Whereas the books bought by the P. T. A. were collected and will be put in use again next fall. It is felt this money was well expended, as lack of books works a hardship on both pupils and teachers.

Two Bay St. Louis Residents to Graduate From La. State University

Reginald N. Blaize, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Blaize, and Edmund Jacob Giering, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Giering of Bay St. Louis, will graduate from La. S. U. at Baton Rouge, with commencement exercises, June 1 to 4.

Mr. Blaize will graduate from the College of Engineering, in chemical engineering, with the degree of bachelor of science while Mr. Giering will also graduate from the same department in electrical engineering, with the degree of bachelor of science. Both young gentlemen are widely and popularly known, originally graduating from St. Stanislaus College, Bay St. Louis.

HOSPITAL INSPECTED BY STATE

Mrs. Dr. Gladys Ratcliff, of State Board of Hospital Inspectors, Visits Bay.

Mrs. Dr. Gladys Ratcliff, of McComb, and member of the State Board of Hospital Inspectors, for Mississippi, was a business visitor to Bay St. Louis and paid the King's Daughters Hospital an official visit. Pleased with all that she saw, satisfied with the management and possessing all requirements for high rating, Dr. Ratcliff left expressing herself well satisfied with the hospital and its management.

The visit was pursuant to the passage of Section 2, House Bill, 925, appropriating "funds to promote publicly-owned hospitals and support of charity patients," which gives the Bay St. Louis hospital a State appropriation of $2,000—one thousand for the present year and the other thousand for 1935. This money is for the support and to defray expenses of charity patients and upon report from the nurse superintendent and three trustees, to be appointed by the governor, the money will be accordingly disbursed.

Dr. Ratcliff's report is essential for the success of procuring this appropriation and while it was not stated, it is supposed the favorable recommendation necessary will be made to State headquarters.

Closing of Clermont Harbor School This Friday, Evening, 25th.

Closing exercises of the county school at Clermont Harbor, Hancock county, will take place this Friday evening, with a brief but interesting program, with the address for the occasion by Hon. E. J. Gex, county attorney.

The grammar grade will graduate and members of the class receive their certificates, Mrs. A. S. McQueen, teacher, making the presentation.

Thousands of people from this locality, the Gulf coast and distant points assembled Wednesday morning on the grounds of St. Augustine's Seminary to witness the ordination to the priesthood of four seminarians by the Most Reverend Richard O. Gerow, D. D., Bishop of Natchez, the first S. V. D. colored priests in the world to be ordained.

Completing their theological studies at the seminary and ordained Wednesday morning are Maurice Rousseve, S. V. D., New Orleans; Vincent D. Smith, S. V. D., Lebanon, Ky.; Anthony Bourges, S. V. D., Lafayette, La., and Frances Wade, S. V. D., of Washington, D. C. At the same occasion another seminarian of British Honduras, who made his studies at St. Augustine's, was received as deaconite, one of the major orders. He will be ordained later for the vicariate of Belize.

To accommodate the thousands it was necessary to erect an outdoor sanctuary, measuring 36x 40, with altar and throne for the bishop and seats for the clergy and others.

The students' choir of 20 mixed voices sang the pontifical high mass. Wednesday the same choir sang the cantata, "The Kingdom of God." An electrical display on the seminary building, in color and beauty to the occasion.

The Most Reverend Daniel F. Desmond, D. D., of Alexandria, La., preached the sermon for the morning occasion before mass.

The Very Reverend Bruno Hagispiel, S. V. D., provincial of the Society of the Divine Word, of Chicago, numbered with the church dignitaries present. Likewise the Very Reverend Monsignor Philip Keller of Rayne, La., and over 100 priests from Louisiana, Mississippi and elsewhere. Also many nuns of various orders and the laity, white and colored.

The history of St. Augustine's is too well known to our readers to bear repetition here. The four seminarians receiving final orders are the first four colored members of the Divine Word, in the world to be ordained.

LYNCHING AS A CURE.

IN THE fall of 1933, when infuriated Californians lynched two alleged kidnapers at San Jose, the statement of Gov. Rolph was generally considered an endorsement of lynch law to stop kidnapping.

The governor said "this is the best lesson that California has ever given the country . . . the state is not going to tolerate kidnapping . . . there will be less kidnapping in the country now."

However, for nearly a week the people of the Nation read about the efforts of the Gettle family to get in touch with the men who kidnaped him out of his own yard. The police forces, unable to do much, stood aside in an effort to facilitate payment of the ransom and his safe return, but finally located and freed the man.

Of course, there are public men who, under the stress of local crime, excuse particular lynchings but, in the main, the people of the country are satisfied that lynching does not prevent certain types of crime. The California case is merely another illustration of the fact.

SAYS VIOLENT DEATH IS PAINLESS.

THAT is it "rather interesting and comfortable" to come into close proximity to death through accident is the conclusion of several persons in London who chronicle their experience for a British newspaper. None of them report the pain or terror that is supposed to exist nor do any of them recollect any impression of violence.

However, all of them report that the mind works with great rapidity, speeding up sensation and thought to a point where anything seems slow in comparison. For example, one man, hit by a speeding automobile, recalls only a "gentle push," although, obviously, he was hit suddenly and powerfully.

This false impression of gentleness is caused by the relative slowness of external happenings compared with the racing messages moving through the brain. The victims even had time to wonder how they would be killed, they said.

LIFE MORE IMPORTANT.

IT is just as well for people sometimes to stop and reflect that life does not exist for the purpose of maintaining industry, large or small, but that economic development is supposed to be an aid to human progress, which must be evident in individual accomplishment.

So long as commerce and industry, with the aid of finance and other contributing factors, conspire to make life more enjoyable for the average man and woman, then people will respect business. When it fails the public will turn against it, and there will be weeping and wailing in the synagogues of high finance and speculation.

GULF COAST AND THE SUMMER.

INDICATIONS point to many visitors to the Mississippi Gulf Coast this summer, with Waveland and Bay St. Louis section, which includes Clermont Harbor, getting a major portion of the number.

Many dwellings, according to report, are leased and by June 1 the influx from New Orleans will be well under way. The Coast has a combination of attractions not to be found elsewhere. And the proximity to New Orleans makes it all the more desirable.

DELIVERANCE.

AS surely as the Lord of Light
Sent men of old to set things right,
So surely when such need be felt,
He raised for us a Roosevelt.

DAVID E. GUYTON.

Blue Mountain, Miss.

One way to have typhoid fever is to go on a vacation and drink water anywhere you find it.

Showing that they do not know what is good for them there will be millions of happy children when school sessions end.

Hint to husbands of June brides—your wife will always be right, or so near to it that you might as well waive the technicality.

The idea that every American boy can be president is responsible for much foolishness in this land of the more or less brave and free.

In our limited peripatations around the globe we have run across no worker, man or woman, who is not ready to take a vacation, if available, with pay.

Subscribers to The Sea Coast Echo are always invited to make suggestions for its improvement but asked to remember that what we need, more than advice, is subscribers.

Those who seek to find the cause for the amazing popularity of the President can rest assured that it is based upon the conviction, on the part of the majority of average citizens, that he is interested in them, their welfare and the use of the powers of government to give them a better chance.

GRUESOME SPECTACLE.

TWO citizens of Louisiana were legally put to death in Jefferson parish Friday of last week, both from the same gallows within a short space of time. According to reports from the daily press the affair at its best was a bungle, tortuous and gruesome in the extreme. Barbarous and incongruous. Witnesses fainted, one man had to be carried out; others sickened and in all it was a dark day and one never to be forgotten, one that will haunt until death.

An evening print (Monday) says the judge who condemned the men to such ignoble death was not present, neither others who possibly played a part in the legal scheme of things that had gone before this Black Friday. How could they? No one smiled, the columnist wrote. How could they?

However, only two smiled—the condemned men. They had made their peace with God and as doomed men here below were happy to meet their all-merciful Maker, more merciful than His man-like creatures.

The men had sinned and the wages are inevitable. While not subscribing to capital punishment, the men were put to death in any way but that the least humane. They were victims of a bungle.

With the Legislature in session, a bill has been introduced for the establishment in Louisiana of the electric chair, and if blood we must have in return for blood, then let this thirst be satisfied not by its actual spilling and saturating the scaffold timbers with gore, until men are seized with pallor and fear, then let us have the chair. The speedier its advent the better.

Surely we do not wish to again witness the garroting of men, for, even though guilty of crime, they are human after all, sons of mothers, husbands of families. The plea of this article is, Let us be more humane. More civilized. If blood we must have.

COMMON SENSE IN COURT.

FOUND guilty of manslaughter a man recently stood before Judge Coyle, of White Plains, N. Y., for sentence.

He had knocked a friend to the ground, after a quarrel which followed some drinking together. The friend died, leaving a wife and three children, the size of the family of the prisoner at the bar.

How many years would the sentence be? That was the question which agitated the defendant, his wife and children, who faced a hard struggle with the breadwinner in prison. What did the sensible judge do?

He suspended the man's sentence, upon condition that he abstain from alcohol and that he pay $15 a week to the widow of his victim, so that she and her little ones will not be in dire distress. As the man was earning $59 a week this should be paid without undue hardship.

The point we make is that both families were helped by the suspended sentence. The prisoner's family have him left to support them and the victim's family get money that otherwise would not be theirs. The judge was undoubtedly correct in describing his sentence as one "for the best interests of society."

THE LAW SCORES TWICE, IT SEEMS.

RESCUE of June Robles, in Arizona, and W. F. Gettle, in California, from the captivity forced upon them by kidnapers, without the payment of ransom in either case, was a notable triumph for the law.

The little six-year-old girl, imprisoned 19 days in a hole scooped out on a desolate spot ten miles from her home, was released through a letter mailed to the governor of Arizona from Chicago, in which the kidnapers told where the girl could be found.

The searchers had a hard time finding the grave-like hole, near a thicket of cactus, covered by tin and burlap, in which the little girl was a chained prisoner for days. What would have happened to her, abandoned by her captors, if the searchers had been unable to find her is easy to imagine but horrible to contemplate.

In California the law scored a more notable victory because officers, acting on a tip, raided the kidnapers den, released the prisoner, caught the kidnapers and secured a confession. No ransom was paid, it was said.

NEWSPAPERS DIRECT TRADE.

THE merchants of a large city recently protested a changed mail schedule because it would permit the newspapers of another large city to be delivered in a trade area ahead of the papers in that city, stating that this would cause decreased circulation of their newspapers in the section which would inevitably mean loss of trade to the merchants themselves.

They based their entire argument on the statement that people trade in towns and cities where they buy their newspapers. For this reason they were interested in seeing that the newspapers of their own city had an equal chance to cover certain trade areas where they were accustomed to get business.

We doubt if many merchants of Bay St. Louis ever think of the fact that people generally prefer to trade in towns and cities out of which they get their newspapers. Somehow, a reader of a newspaper published in any town, feels more friendly to the town than otherwise, and will, nine times out of ten, give it a preference over other places about which he knows nothing.

WEALTH'S TRIBUTE TO HUMANITY.

A CHECK of the estate of the late James B. Duke reveals a shrinkage of $156,240 since 1925, in an estate slightly less than $76,000,000. This is, we take it, remarkable. We know of estates that have disappeared since 1925, along with banks, trust companies and what nots.

However, we call to your attention the fact that more than $42,000,000 out of the total goes to charitable purposes, including support of Duke University, hospitals, orphanages and other philanthropic institutions.

The generosity of this tobacco magnate can be matched by the public gifts of other men in American life. It is the astounding tribute that wealth pays to humanity in the modern era. Men of wealth in the United States set an example along charitable lines that is not equalled anywhere, anytime.

MERELY THEORETICAL

By GEORGE E. SCHILLING

WAR

THE speeches against war are still being delivered to a public which is becoming a little bored with the subject, even though our college boys seem to agree with the speechmakers that they are entitled to all the benefits of a free government without paying any of the cost of such freedom. The big brute with the short beard and the Roman armor is still the target of cartoonists. All our moral and religious leaders, and all the irreligious radical leaders too, are unanimously condemning war.

In an address to a national organization of women some time ago the President of the United States, in urging the women to keep up the agitation, explained one of the great advantages of a whole-hearted devotion to the cause. He noted that there is no opposition to the crusade at all, that we are all in complete accordance on the subject, so the women could talk their heads off and end up just exactly where they started. That is good politics. You set up a straw man and then lambaste the daylights out of him, which pleases everybody, offends nobody and keeps you out of mischief. Orating about controversial subjects is apt to create enemies and affect financial support of yourself and your organization.

The new proposition that our moral leaders are now advancing, new in the last twenty or thirty years, is that armaments produce wars, that nations buy a lot of guns and tanks and things, and then go to war in order to use them. If we can just get rid of armaments we can all avoid wars. Since armaments are a development of the last few centuries, that would intimate that in the golden ages of the past, when there were no armaments, there were no wars. Take the American Indians, for example, who never had any armaments before the white man came, except some home-made bows and spears and stone hatchets. Our Revolutionary War, in 1775, was caused by the fact that we had made some preparations for it by storing munitions, that is according to such a theory.

Since that time we have never prepared for war except perhaps for a war with France in 1798 which President Adams succeeded in avoiding, and we have had five major conflicts within 135 years. At least two of these might have been prevented by the knowledge that we were adequately prepared.

In 1914 we had a brilliant, strong and stubborn president, who refused to entertain the idea that he could possibly be drawn into a European war. We entered that was in less than three years, and were not prepared. If we had been ready, events might have taken a very different course. Some of our looser-tongued enthusiasts even assert that we went into that war to save the foreign investments of a few of our wealthier citizens. If you stop to think you will see how silly that is. The records show clearly that President Wilson, who hated war as much as anybody, asked Congress to declare that a state of war existed, and that Congress followed his advice.

Anybody who believes that Woodrow Wilson was acting on behalf of New York financiers has a very unusual opinion of that president.

Two or three thousand years ago, several very profound Hebrew thinkers, who knew and had suffered in wars, agreed remarkably well on the subject. They insisted repeatedly that war was a punishment for sin. One of the latest of them, a man of exceptionally practical mind, declared that war is the consequence of sin—that is of greed, lust and covetousness. His statement is not so far removed from a modern theory that all wars are the result of hunger, the hungry people attacking. According to both theories, war is not an arbitrary decision, but a result of certain causes. It is not a disease, but the symptom of a disease.

This column is not bloody-minded. It is not advocating war with anybody for any purpose. It considers anybody who wants war as a fool. This country is the richest that has ever existed in not greedy or covetous of any other country's land or possessions or worries. It has much confidence in the ultimate good of American citizens and of their government. It lacks full confidence in other nations and their governments. It is the same with neighbors. Some of them we know to be honest, reasonable, fair and kindly in their dealings. Of others we are not so certain.

Much of our talk on this subject is downright silly. If you, dear reader, will try in your private life the policy of many of our pacifists you will see why such an assertion. You don't want a fight? We suppose not. Then the thing to do is to tell all your neighbors so, assure them that you have no intention of shooting them, throwing bombs at them, or of burning their houses. Then, after having assured everybody you meet of this fact, you get a legal paper drawn up by a good lawyer pledging everybody to refrain from killing or maiming each other and you go around getting everybody's signature to your paper. That is the up-to-date method of seeking peace and pursuing it. Is it any wonder that foreigners consider Americans all crazy?

There is another method of keeping out of fights which has much to recommend it. That method is to

LONGISM.

(Clarksdale Register-)

REDISTRIBUTION of wealth is one of the main planks of a candidate for the United States Senate. (There is a tacit agreement among brethren of the press not to speak the name of the protagonist of this scheme too often nor too loudly lest he profit by advertising.) That scheme of course is taken boldly from the Kingfish, who urges that which every mother's son wants but not one expects to ever realize.

Redistribution of wealth is an ill-descent dream. Socialism and communism and all schemes of government based on the need to make life easier for the toiling, moiling millions is utopian fancy.

Life is based on struggle and the only thing that we can hope for is freedom to struggle that the sinews of the soul may be strengthened.

What ails the lovely religion, and ethical creeds that are designed to help us? Nothing except that not one will fit us. They do not fit us because they are conceived in the cloister, spun by the cloistered friar who knows not struggle.

Man has been born of the mollusk and he would still be in the mud if environment had not pricked him. Unless character is denoted with many jobs—unless there are constant demands on us—we will not make progress.

The most painful thing in the world is the thinking process. Actually if the individual thought for himself instead of letting what's in the mind of everybody think for him he would become weak and weary.

No man will engage in thinking, hence will not progress, unless necessity makes him think. Mind was put in us by necessity; there would have been none unless the need for it grew—unless man had to use wits to save himself.

Yesterday we talked with a friend, a man whom we regard highly, a splendid example of Jewish manhood; who spoke, a little sadly, it seemed, of the struggle of his race, especially so because of the fact that even in this age there is persecution in Germany.

"Thank God," we said, "You should thank God. Your race has been the most persecuted in history because at all points there have been persecution. The need for weapons of character and defense have been instinctively born."

When Bill and Long get through distributing wealth and you get your share, and we get ours, you may be happy for a while, and we shall be content, too, as shall all look like morons and act like psychic paralytics.

It takes necessity to make a Bonaparte or a Sunnyside, the enlightened one who has reached a degree of sainthood and who is to be a savior in the next incarnation; he has reached the end of struggle!

Personally we prefer to work for a living and come back over and anon!

SEVEN OUT OF EIGHT.

(Picayune (Miss.) Item.)

WHEN newspapering was a self-sustaining, respectable business, we always got a great kick out of opening our mail. It was almost like peeing into your sock on Christmas morning. A thrill at every turn. This letter contained a check for the advertisement that appeared last week; that letter a signed check for "whatever your subscription price is." An order for several thousand of this or that, but, those were the days that wuz! Forty-one's mail was distributed this May morning A. D., and we had eight letters. Six of them were in franked envelopes (franked envelopes are the kind you get put in jail for using unless you work for the government); the other two had 1½-cent stamps on them and contained college news of interest to the public.

Using our mail as a measuring stick, six out of every eight people are working for the government, and they all want to cooperate with us. One franked letter says: "Some landlords are accused of violating cotton adjustment contracts." Shame on the landlord! Another says: "Sorghum is easily and inexpensively to grow." How wonderful. Another says: "The AAA farm record books make it easy for farmers * * *"

Next, "The federal government has allotted $21,500,000 to Mississippi." And again: "Hay crops 69.9 per cent normal." And last, but not least, "Interest rates drop from 5½ per cent to 5 per cent on farm loans." Oh, what a thrill, but we cannot ring it up in the cash register.

The Echo wishes to add its amen to the above.

SHAKESPEAREAN POLITICS.

(McComb Enterprise)

THIS Murphree-Conner Shakespearean debate is illuminating, edifying, invigorating, and downright uplifting. At last Mississippi politics is turning cultural. But it is not without precedent. John Sharp Williams once quoted Brutus, and today more people credit him than Shakespeare with the ironic wit, "I had rather be a dog, and bay the moon, than such a Roman." Of course the late senator said "than continue longer in the United States Senate."

In order to stimulate this Shakespearean effort we proffer a quotation for the lips of Mike and Dennis.

Mike, you say to Dennis, "I prithee, boy, run to the Senate house."

Stay not to answer me, but get thee gone."

And Dennis, you take these words from Julius Caesar and fling them right back to Mike.

"There is an error, Cassius (con ner) in your threats. For I am armed so strong in honesty That they pass by me as the idle wind, Which I respect not."

We feel ourselves breaking out all over with Shakespearean goose pimples.

OUR CALIFORNIA LETTER.

Thermometer High in Southern California—"Trek for the Beaches"—Beautiful Laguna Beach—Thumb-nail Sketch of the Circus—Mother's Day Parade of Foreign Mothers—Outstanding Pageant.

(Correspondence Sea Coast Echo)

Fullerton, Calif., May 15, 1934. Pretty hot here now! 79 degrees in the house. At noon the heat is like blazes. Occasional breezes, and the shady parks serve as a change.

"Trek for the Beaches" is a good slogan for Southern California—now.

Even the church vestry have quietly stolen away,—"leaving to a choir boy the task of taking up the offering. Mostly empty seats in the church and choir."

But do we have water! I'll say we do. Loose hose abounds; lying on well sprinkled lawns—even sidewalks. In the park, small fountains arise; cover the entire grounds.

Next to the park, is a large orange orchard, it is irrigated by a row of faucets, set in semi-circular cement bowls, placed along the front. Through lengthwise ditches and others around the trees; which are now covered with golden fruit, flows a constant tide of living water.

I read somewhere that the Orange crop, is California's chief source of wealth.

I visited Laguna Beach with friends the other day. To see the dark green water and the snow white tossing breakers was enticing; it was my first visit since last summer.

The Rocky Heights, of the shore line and the wide sandy beach of the enclosed bay was typical of that locality.

The road above, winds among the hills. A beautiful drive; with scattered picturesque towns. They seem to nestle at feet or to cling to the sides of the hills.

Of course, went to the circus. It was Al G. Barnes' Wild Animal Circus. "The great herd of the world's most highly performing elephants, poodles, Hanneford's greatest comedy rider of all time."

Three R. K. Trains, 200 acts, 60 clowns, 350 horses, an immense zoo, and 12 acres of tents.

A herd of small zebras, trained sea lions.

A pageant and the "Fiesta of the Rio Grande." California likes Spanish dancing—all the Orange Country shows have it. This one was really wonderful.

There was a beautiful act "On the Flying Trapeze." So many animals. African lions, Royal Bengal tigers, elephants, horses, all of less trapeze acts. The clowns were legion, but they were mostly stilted.

The Knights Templar had parade and reception at the Masonic Temple, in honor of C. Stanley Chapman of Fullerton, newly elected Grand Commander of the Grand Commandery of California.

They carried many flags; had a fine brass band, especially beautiful plumes, plain black suits, swords and everyone wore medals, usually three or four.

A "Mothers of the World" pageant was held at the Santa Ana Musical Bowl for all of the Orange Country, by the Orange County Breakfast Club. There were 1000 persons in the pageant. The dancing especially by the children was really beautiful. The costumes were scant, but artistic.

There were all kinds of Mothers—Indian, Spanish, Irish, German, Japanese, Negro, Italian, Russian, Czechoslovakian and American.

The American mother was in an automobile, escorted by the American Legion. Each mother took a seat on the platform, after being presented with a large bunch of flowers.

SECRETARY OF STATE FOR MISSISSIPPI IS EFFICIENT OFFICIAL

Hon. Walker Wood, secretary of state, has proved himself one of the most capable of state officials, and people who have had business to transact with his office are pleased not only with the efficiency of his office organization, but also with the courteous treatment accorded them.

Mr. Wood is a candidate to succeed himself and should receive the support of the voters. The work of the secretary of state's office requires skill and patience, and Mr. Wood's experience and past record justifies his reelection.

One of the leading Mississippi weeklies has the following to say about Mr. Wood:

"Secretary Wood has proved to be the right man in the right place, by his efficiency and his untiring efforts to render to the people of his state the service they should have and want of a public official. Every citizen of Mississippi, regardless of station or avocation, has always found a friend in Walker Wood, a hearty welcome always awaits them in the office of Secretary of State, and in every instance he has served them to the very best of his ability."

"The affairs of his office, under his able leadership have been efficiently and economically handled, as well as rapidly dispatched."

"In announcing to succeed himself, Mr. Wood has done what the people of Mississippi wanted him to do, and they should, and will, see to it that he remains as the head of this Department."

CROSBY SINGS MOST SONGS IN NEW FILM

Singing more songs than he has had in any other motion picture, Bing Crosby comes on Sunday and Monday to the A. & G. Theater in his brand new Paramount film, "We're Not Dressing."

From the original by Benjamin Glazer, "We're Not Dressing," is a breezy, romantic song-fest, played against the background of a deserted South Sea Island. In addition to Crosby, the film features Carole Lombard, George Burns and Gracie Allen, Ethel Merman and Leon Errol.

Norman Taurog directed from the screen play by Stephen Morehouse Avery. The songs for Crosby, as well as those which Ethel Merman sings, were all written by Mack Gordon and Harry Revel, composers of "Did You Ever See a Dream Walking."

Aboard a palatial yacht, Carole Lombard, a wealthy heiress, is touring the South Pacific with her two rich suitors and her goofy uncle, Leon Errol.

Bored with life in general, the young girl gets quite a kick out of watching the antics of one of her suitors, Bing Crosby, to whom she has entrusted the care of her pet bear, Droopy.

In his drunken moments one foggy night, Errol stumbles into the wheelhouse, opens a door through which all the charts are blown, breaks the compass, and they all wake up, wrecked on a deserted island.

Now, with loads of work to do, the sailor takes matters into his hands, and to the annoyance of everyone, especially Carole Lombard, he puts them to work.

Complications increase daily, and become quite serious when Burns and Allen, a couple of naturalists, join their camp.

How Bing sings his way through their troubles, eventually winning the heart of his wealthy employer, brings the picture to an entertaining climax.

WITH THE MOVIES AND FILM FOLKS

(For The Sea Coast Echo)

The recent kidnapping of William F. Gettle, of Beverly Hills, has all Hollywood shivering, with the consequent doubling of body guards and setting of closer watches over the big estates of the film colony. Mae West is guarded by several huskies and other actors and actresses are taking similar steps.

Talking of Mae, it is said that Paramount has purchased, upon her suggestion, "Me and the King," and that upon the completion of "Queen of Sheba," it will be produced. Her latest, "It Ain't No Sin," is about ready for release.

George Arliss, who is spending a vacation in London, has signed a contract for one picture this Summer for Gaumont, at a whispered wage of 30,000 English pounds. When Mr. Arliss returns to Hollywood in the fall, he will make "Richelieu" for Twentieth Century Pictures.

Will Roger's most recent film, tentatively called "Merry Andrew," will be released under the title, "Handy Andy."

William Gaxton, who appeared as the President of the U. S. in the musical comedy "Of Thee I Sing," has signed a contract with RKO-Radio and will appear with Zasu Pitts and Slim Summerville in "Afterwards."

The first picture in which Lee Tracy will appear for Paramount under a contract recently signed will be "A Son Comes Home," by Julian Josephson.

Columbia has made a raid on Broadway and, after two months of close scrutiny has given contracts to Florence Rice, of "She Loves Me Not," John Buckler, from "Shattered Lamp," George Murphy from "Roberta," Charles Sabin from "Whatta Man," and Robert Allen from advertisements on billboards and magazines and James Blakely from stock.

Mascot's, an independent company, plans to use all thirteen of the current Wampus stars in one production "Young and Beautiful," and is attempting as nearly as possible to give employment to those already in Hollywood. In addition to the "Baby Star" picture, the company plans to produce "Harmony Lane," based on the life of Stephen Foster and containing much of his music.

One of the most elaborate and pretentious pictures now being filmed in Hollywood is Erik Sharrel's first

The fourth annual May Crowning sponsored by the Gulf Coast Spiritual Union, was held Sunday afternoon 4 o'clock, at St. John the Evangelist church, Gulfport with socialities of Bay St. Louis, Pass Christian, Gulfport and Biloxi taking part.

A procession formed in the St. Francis de Sales school ground and marched down 25th avenue to 17th street, down 17th to 24th avenue, and then back up 17th to the church where the services were held.

While marching, Miss Edith Reicker, president, of the Gulfport sodality, and Rev. Wm. J. Leech, Pass Christian recited the rosary.

The procession was formed in the following order: Cross bearer, Henry Villa, St. Stanislaus; altar boys, Gulfport; flower girls, Patricia Madere, Isabel O'Connor, Dorothy Schmitt, Dorothy Cormier, dressed in blue organdy dresses and carrying arm bouquets of white lilies and fern tied with blue, each maid being escorted by a young man, the maids and escorts representing different socialities on the Coast, namely: Misses Marguerite Butucci, Rectoria Cruthirds, Gulfport; Marie Gill and Helen Korman, Biloxi; Evelyn Anglade and Elizabeth Lozes, Pass Christian; Maude Warren and Alice Camors, St. Joseph, Bay St. Louis; Anthony Garcia, Harold Cripps, William App, William Quinn, St. Stanislaus; Edmund Sollom, Paul Joffroy, Bert Simpson and John Joseph Schlegel, Gulfport; Crown bearers, dressed in white organdy, Helen Lawson and Mary Poem Clark; queen dressed in white organdy, Miss Frances Schmitt and her escort, Edmund Fahey, Jr., president of the Coast union and who also read the act of consecration at the services; the socialities of Gulfport, Biloxi, Pass Christian, St. Stanislaus, St. Joseph, Bay St. Louis, the Sisters of Mercy and Sisters of St. Joseph and Brothers Edmund and Anselm, Father Patrick Moran, Father Francis Quinn, Father Peter Keenan and Father Wm. J. Leech.

Father H. A. Spengler greeted the procession at the altar steps, and after the Litany the speaker of the day took over the program.

Rev. Patrick Moran, Bay St. Louis was the speaker, telling those present how thankful they should be for the Mother of God as their mother. He said that Carlisle, who taught the people of the world to be independent, on his death bed had the cry of child, and that was "I want my mother." Father Moran said every Catholic had one in the Blessed Mother, and that the privilege belonged especially to those enrolled in the socialities of the Blessed Virgin.

He urged those present to follow the example of Mary by giving good example and leading in the practice of virtue, and closed by saying that the life of a child of Mary should be dedicated to the services of Mary and her divine son.

The main altar of the church was decorated with Easter lilies and the side altars with a profusion of spring flowers. Miss Marguerite Weeks presided at the organ and all songs were sung by the socialities in a body.

The crowning was closed by Benediction of Blessed Sacrament with Father Keenan officiating and Father Leech assisting.

Miss Louise Singletary, Gulfport, led the spiritual bouquet from the Coast socialities.

LETTER FROM DE LISLE

Rev. Father S. J. Sorin Visits Ramsay Springs—Waters Known For Curative and Specific Powers—Resort Not Far From Coast Line and Many Visit Hotel and Springs for Week-End.

DeLisle, Miss., May 19, 1934.

Last week I motored with Dr. Andrews and his secretary, Miss Zelina Warren to the well-known Ramsay Springs, located thirty miles north of Biloxi, with the railroad depot located at Wiggins, on the I. C. R. R.

This resort is unquestionably an ideal place for rest and the medicinal properties of the springs are not unknown. Yet for their wide scope of curative powers yet not sufficiently known to suffering humanity. It is here one may procure relief from ailment to which man is heir. Some one has said man is heir to a million ailments. Many may be relieved here. Doctors go there, it is said, to be relieved of their physical troubles and in turn send patients who bring other sick people to this place of panacea.

If you are a victim of eczema, a cure is said to be guaranteed. It is reputed that this is the only mineral water that will effect a cure.

Complicated chronic biliousness and kidney trouble find their specific as nature's remedy.

Another attraction is the hotel, located on the grounds. The management supplies one with abundant and tasty meals. The water gives one such an appetite that meals of this kind are welcome.

Ask at the hotel for the analysis of this water. It has been carefully and scientifically analyzed by the chemist of the state, Professor W. F. Hand.

Ramsay Springs are only 47 miles from the city of Gulfport and roads leading to it are the best. On nearly every Sunday there are many visiting this resort near Mississippi Coast. Take a trip there and you will enjoy, learn and profit.
